Reading response 9
Chris Potts, Ling 130a/230a: Introduction to semantics and pragmatics, Winter 2021
Distributed Mar 16; closes Mar 23

Drawing on our March 18 discussion (or the associated screencast), provide two cogent linguistic or cognitive arguments in favor of the position that swears like the F-word should be subject to different legal restrictions than other kinds of speech. (2–4 sentences per argument; the arguments might not be persuasive to you, but they should make sense!)