1. Go to this link:	https://claude.com/product/claude-science
2. Hit download now, and choose the download that matches your laptop
3. Wait for the download to finish, then double click the download to open and follow the prompts
4. A new window should open in your browser that says sign in, click it

5. Hit “sign in on the web”, then “Stanford University”. Hit “authorize”.
6. Claude will then ask you to indicate which sciences you do. This isn’t super important, but pick the one you’re most likely to do. PS- don’t skip these!

7. You'll now see a screen that says "turn on memory". You now know a fair bit about memory- make your own decision here!
8. Give Claude a little bit of context about yourself. Again… totally up to you about how much context you want to give :)

9. Now, choose one of the starter tasks (or make your own).
