Be part of a unique, intense, and rewarding six day course about extreme energy efficiency during spring break (with two on-campus meetings during winter quarter) at Rocky Mountain Institute’s Innovation Center in beautiful Basalt, Colorado with world-renown energy efficiency guru Amory Lovins.

Students must pay for and arrange their own travel. Lodging and food are covered during the course.

“Dramatically exceeded expectations. Very thought-provoking lectures and course exercises each day.”
- Student, 2018

“This is the best conference/class I’ve taken so far.”
- Student, 2018

Undergraduates and Graduates welcome to apply!
Questions? Contact Avery McEvoy, mcevoy@stanford.edu