

All Good Pitches Are Telling a Story

There are expected structures for stories. Follow them.

Expected structure for a pitch.

1. Problem
2. Solution
3. Evidence

Don't move on to the next part until you have finished the previous part.

- Think of characters in a play.
- Have a story arc.
- Build tension and resolution.
- Introduce a point of “maximal curiosity.”

Pitch Structure

- #1 goal of a short pitch: Just enough info to get them interested in speaking with you
- Make each slide matter. If it's not serving a clear purpose, you probably don't need it.

Structure of a full pitch:

- Intro
- Problem
- Solution
- Market
- Business Model
- GTM
- Competition
- Traction
- Team
- Funding/Ask

Project Name

Catchy tagline that conveys the essence of your project

Welcome

Book rooms with locals, rather than hotels.

Problem

- Clearly describe the problem your target customers are facing
 - make the audience feel the problem
- Use statistics or examples to highlight the significance of the problem

Problem

Price is an important concern for customers booking travel online.

Hotels leave you disconnected from the city and its culture.

No easy way exists to book a room with a local or become a host.

Solution

- Explain your product or service and how it solves the problem
- Highlight key features and benefits

Solution

A web platform where users can rent out their space to host travelers to:

SAVE MONEY

when traveling

MAKE MONEY

when hosting

SHARE CULTURE

local connection to the city

Product

- Show, don't just tell
- Clearly convey what your product is and how it works
- Simple visual or demo

SEARCH BY CITY → REVIEW LISTINGS → BOOK IT!

The image displays three screenshots of the AirBed&Breakfast website, illustrating the user flow from search to booking.

- Search by City: The first screenshot shows the homepage with a search bar for "Denver, CO, USA". Below the search bar, a list of search terms and their prices is shown, including "Convention" ($75), "comfy" ($75), "Green" ($75), "DNC Chic" ($75), "Elegant" ($75), "Home!" ($95), "DNC" ($100), "relaxing" ($100), "Affluent" ($100), and "bedwetish" ($100). A testimonial for "Emily" is also visible.
- Review Listings: The second screenshot shows a detailed listing for "Caitlin M." in Denver. The listing includes a photo of Caitlin, a map showing the location, and a description: "About me: I am 21 and a Denver native. I love to cook and entertain. My friends come over for dinner often and I have all the time in the world to cook. I am a bit messy but I'm busy that I'm not there to clean up after myself. I am a major with political science and art history minors. I love to paint." The listing is marked as "100% of proceeds go to Breast Cancer".
- Book It! The third screenshot shows the booking interface for the same listing. It includes fields for "Check in" (08/04/2008) and "Check out" (08/06/2008), a price of "$75 per night", and a "Book It!" button. The listing is also described as "100% of proceeds go to Breast Cancer".

Overall

- Pitching and storytelling is an essential skill for founders.
- You need to tell a good story to recruit teammates, find investors, get your first customers.
- You need to sell the future to the present. You need to convince people that something that doesn't exist yet not only will, but has to.
- Your success as a founder is most directly tied to this skill, so it is worthwhile to practice it.
