Day One

8:30  Coffee

9:00 – 9:15  Welcome
Karen Nagy, Stanford University

9:15 – 10:00  Keynote
Peter Lyman, University of California, Berkeley

- Demonstration of Projects (with Web channels/distribution)

12:00– 1:30  Lunch

1:30 – 3:30  Panel I: Digital Archives/Libraries — Preconditions, Impediments, and Funding Implications
- Suzanne Calpestri, UC Berkeley
- Deanna Marcum, Counsel on Library and Information Resources
- Jim Coleman, Harvard University
- Brewster Kahle, Alexa (tentative)

4:00 - 6:00  Panel II: Web as Information Medium for Scholarly Interchange — Implications for Societies/Historians

6:30 - 7:30  Poster Session and Reception

Day Two

8:30  Coffee

9:00 – 10:45  Panel III: “Collecting History” — Technology Interactions with and Services for User Communities
- Roy Rosenzweig, George Mason University
- Jed Buchwald, Dibner Institute, MIT
- Ted Hughes, University of Pennsylvania
- Jim Sparrow, George Mason University
- Paul Rabinow, Respondant

11:00 – 12:45  Panel IV: Practicalities and Economics of Using the Web for Research
• Clifford Lynch, Coalition for Networked Information
• John Unsworth, IATH, University of Virginia
• NSF Representative
• Karen Nagy, Stanford University
• Nancy Cline, Harvard University, Respondant (tentative)

12:45 – 2:00 Lunch

2:00 – 3:30 Users
  ▪ Who Are the Users/Target Audiences?
  ▪ Cui Bono? Disseminating the Results of Web Research

Summary Roundtable/Issues
  ▪ Viewpoint on Economics
  ▪ Viewpoint on Technology/Technology Training
  ▪ Viewpoint on Service to User Communities
  ▪ Viewpoint on Digital Libraries/Archives
  ▪ Karen Nagy, Facilitator

3:30 – 4:00 Break/Coffee

4:00 - 5:00 Action Plan for Collaboration and Partnerships for Institutions Using the Web as a Platform for Collaborative Research
  • Jim Coleman, Facilitator

5:00 – 5:30 Closing Statement (Jesse Ausubel)