

ILLUSTRATIONS

Figures

- 1.1 Some justifications for archaeology 26
- 2.1 Appearance and interpretation 37
- 4.1 The aesthetic artifact 72
- 4.2 The period room rediscovered 78
- 4.3 Beamish valley 83
- 4.4 The past brought back to life 87
- 5.1 Stages in theoretical appropriation 112
- 6.1 The social totality 127
- 7.1 The location of the passage grave Fjalkinge No. 9 156
- 7.2 The passage grave Fjalkinge No. 9 757
- 7.3 Pots from the four temporal phases at Fjalkinge No. 9 158
- 7.4 A hierarchical classification system for the designs on Swedish TRB ceramics 759
- 7.5 Design sequences on two pots from Fjalkinge No. 9 160
- 7.6 The percentage of vessels possessing bounded designs and the percentage of bounded designs on vessels for the four temporal phases at Fjalkinge No. 9 164
- 7.7 Plan of Fjalkinge No. 9 showing the excavated area and six analytical space regions 765
- 7.8 The distribution of potsherds at the entrance to Fjalkinge No. 9 166
- 7.9 The number of potsherds for 1 metre bands right to left and front to back at the entrance to FjalkingeNo. 9 767
- 7.10 The changing relative frequencies of vessels found in the analytical space regions outside FjalkingeNo. 9 168
- 7.11 The frequency of oblique infill for each of the primary bounded forms of the classification system 169
- 8.1 The variables recorded for each beer can 775
- 8.2 The frequency of words, representational and abstract designs on British and Swedish beer cans 177
- 8.3 Writing on Swedish and British beer cans 777
- 8.4 Contrasts between British and Swedish beer cans 178
- 8.5 Principal components and principal coordinates analyses of British and Swedish beer cans 797
- 8.6 The relative frequency of words, representational and abstract designs on British beer and lager cans 183
- 8.7 Principal components and principal coordinates analyses of British and Swedish beer and lager cans 184
- 8.8 Contrasts between British beer and lager cans 785
- 8.9 The relative frequency of different colours, words, representational and abstract designs on Swedish beer cans according to class 185
- 8.10 Class I Swedish beer label 186

- 8.11 Principal components and principal coordinates analyses of Swedish beer classes 187
- 8.12 Class differences between the Swedish beer cans 188
- 8.13 Per capita consumption of pure alcohol according to drink type for Britain and Sweden 1850-1910 193
- 8.14 Convictions for drunkenness in England and Wales and Sweden 196
- 8.15 Activities of Swedish temperance boards 1945-80 197
- 8.16 Numbers of different types of retail outlets for alcohol in England and Wales and Sweden 201
- 8.17 The micropolitics of power involving an application for a licence to serve spirits in Stockholm 202
- 8.18 Per capita consumption of pure alcohol according to drink type for Britain and Sweden 203
- 8.19 Numbers of alcoholics in mental hospitals or psychiatric wards in Britain and Sweden 205
- 8.20 View of Lund, Sweden 206
- 8.21 The number of breweries in Britain and Sweden per 100,000 inhabitants 207
- 8.22-8.33 British and Swedish beer advertisements 224-235
- 8.34 Simplified representation of the structural relationship between various alcoholic drinks 238

Tables

- 7.1 The frequency of alphabetically coded design sequences according to a four-phase temporal division of the TRB 161
- 7.2 The frequency of vessels generated according to different design rules according to a four-phase temporal division of the TRB 161
- 7.3 The frequency of bounded and unbounded design sequences according to a four-phase periodization of the TRB 762
- 7.4 The frequency of TRB vessels captured by various generative rules for the combination of bounded and unbounded designs according to a four-phase temporal division of the TRB 765
- 8.1 Ranks of the British and Swedish cans according to the frequency of background colours 176
- 8.2 Representational designs on British and Swedish beer cans and bottle labels 779
- 8.3 Ranks of the British beer and lager cans according to the frequency of background colours 182
- 8.4 The frequency of articles written about alcohol and alcohol advertisements in British and Swedish newspapers 277
- 8.5 Variables recorded for the newspaper analysis 272
- 8.6 Results of the content analysis of articles about alcohol 275
- 8.7 List of the variables recorded for a content analysis of the British and Swedish alcohol advertisements 218
- 8.8 Results of the content analysis of British and Swedish alcohol advertisements 220