Coercion, capital, and ancient Mediterranean states

Walter Scheidel (Department of Classics, Stanford University)

Drawing on the work of Tilly, Ertman, Spruyt and others, this paper explores the question of how recent studies of state formation in medieval and early modern Europe may improve our understanding of comparable processes that occurred in the Mediterranean region in antiquity.